Product Description

- Your customers who work in open offices, travel frequently, or study in noisy environments already know ANC headphones would change their day they just haven't found the right pair yet.
- Active Noise Cancellation sells itself the moment they try it. One demo in store and the sale is effectively closed there's nothing to explain, the customer experiences it instantly. This is a considered purchase that drives store visits. ANC headphones aren't bought on a whim customers research, shortlist, and then go in store to feel the quality. If you stock them, you get that foot traffic.
- Corporate buyers and gift buyers are high value, low effort customers. They're not price sensitive they want something that looks premium and works well. The QuietMix II delivers both. Commuters and frequent flyers are a year round buyer. This isn't seasonal stock every week brings a new customer who just had one too many noisy train rides.
