Product Description

- Remote workers, call centre staff, and video callers already know a proper headset makes life easier. They are just waiting to find one worth buying.
- The open ear design is a genuine differentiator in the category. Traditional headsets cause ear fatigue, but the Nomad lets users hear their surroundings while staying fully connected.
- Office managers and corporate buyers are low friction customers who buy in bulk. They are not hunting for the cheapest option and appreciate professional looking desk gear.
- IT resellers and office supply stores see these customers constantly. It makes a natural addition to keyboards and monitors, easily increasing the average basket size.
- Home office upgrades are a permanent staple, not a temporary trend. Your customer base grows every time another company shifts to flexible or remote working.
