Product Description

- Customers who entertain outdoors or travel to the beach have been settling for average speakers. They need a powerful audio solution built specifically for the elements.
- The combination of full water submersion and serious volume closes the sale instantly. Once customers realize it can handle the elements without sacrificing sound, durability objections disappear.
- This is a natural centerpiece for surf shops and beach lifestyle stores. Simply putting it on display playing music allows the product to sell itself on sound alone.
- Hospitality buyers and event hire companies purchase these units in multiples. One satisfied commercial buyer often turns into a highly lucrative, recurring account with strong industry referrals.
- While summer kicks off the initial interest, the demand continues straight through winter. Beach parties simply transition into backyard fire pits and off grid camping trips.
